Room: WPRA 107

Course Overview:

The goal of Economics 2010 is to familiarize students with the basic concepts of microeconomics. Introductory microeconomics provides students with an overview of the tools of economic analysis that will be helpful in understanding future economics courses and issues that arise in business and law.

Course Objectives:

Students should be prepared to learn the basic model of supply and demand and the underpinnings of the theory. You will learn the basic economics of competition, monopoly, oligopoly, and monopolistic competition. Finally, we will evaluate the strengths of the market system (efficiencies) and its weaknesses (market failure).

Grading Policy:

Your final grade will be based on three exams. Each exam is worth 33% of your grade. Each exam will be multiple choice and true/false. There are no make ups. If you miss an exam, I will fill in the score with your previous or subsequent exam minus half a grade. If you miss two exams you will receive an F in the class.

Teaching and Learning Methods:

Each class will begin with a lecture that covers the material in the assigned chapter. After the lecture, students will actively answer questions and problems on the material and we will collectively evaluate the answers.

Required Text:

1. Microeconomics: Principles and Policy, by William J. Baumol and Alan S. Blinder (12th ed.) (“B&B”).
